EDİTÖRDEN / EDITORIAL

The second in the series of International Conferences on Roman and Late Antique Thrace, the first of which was held in Plovdiv in 2016, was organized in Perinthos/Herakleia, the capital of Thrace in Roman and Late Antiquity. With the participation of six prominent scholars from six different countries, this meeting provided an opportunity to contribute new ideas to the study of the ancient history of the Southeast European region by evaluating the problems arising in the process of researching the ancient cultures of the Thracian region.

I would like to thank Professor Lyudmil Vagalibski, who conceived the idea for this conference series, my dear colleague Chryssa Karadima-Matsa, and all the colleagues who participated in the second meeting of Roman and Late Antique Thrace. I would also like to thank Prof. Dr. Mahmut Ak, then Rector of Istanbul University, and Prof. Dr. Hayati Develi, then Dean of the Faculty of Letters, who contributed to the scientific objectives of the meeting.

On behalf of all my colleagues, I would like to thank the Marmara Ereğlisi Municipality, which provided financial support for this meeting, and Önder Öztürk, the Director of Tekirdağ Museum at the time, who contributed significantly to the realization of the meeting.

Editor-in-Chief
Prof. Dr. Mustafa H. SAYAR
